

In this number

by Nicola Villa

This number is dedicated to a special focus: e-Learning: requirements of the disciplines.

The focus was born by an idea of prof. Luigi Colazzo and dr. Giuseppina Rita Mangione. I want to thank Jose for her work on this number and her precious collaboration.

The aim of this focus is to cover a large context of disciplines, to understand how e-learning, and in general technology enhanced learning, could be really effective in different domains. The discussion is developed using a positive approach, to understand the possibile future (or already defined) directions of e-learning and TEL.

All the papers of the issue are described in the editorial section. I have to thank to all the authors of this number for their excellent contribution.

The call for paper for the next number of Je-LKS (Complexity Education) is already been published on the journal's website (www.je-lks.org); the deadline for paper submission is 30th June.

I wish to remind you that Je-LKS is also in Facebook with its group, where you can find news and the call for papers for the next numbers.

Nicola Villa
Managing Editor of Journal of e-Learning and Knowledge Society